Community Action for Climate Change Network Llangollen November 18th 2009 10am - 4pm

The Community Action for Climate Change Networks are running a second series of FREE events during November 2009. In order to meet the local need to take action on climate change the events will offer an opportunity to:

- network with others from community groups, small businesses, local authorities and others
- build on the recent workshop learning
- develop local action plans, and
- identify future training and development requirements

This latest series of events aim to build on the success of the first set of Community Action for Climate Change Network events which took place during May 2009, where cutting edge speakers and workshops were linked to lively discussion and debate on community action and plans for Wales.
